Scripture Reflection

At its best, Christian humility makes God present. A person who speaks divine truth in a humble way can change a life, and through that life, can change the world. Speaking with pride and ego, by contrast, can hide the presence of God. A person who uses the truth as a weapon or as a tool for manipulation can obscure the divine message and even drive listeners away from God whose truth is proclaimed. Humility thus does not merely adorn a virtuous life but reveals God's presence at work in the power of the Gospel.

+ This is the message of each reading this weekend. The prophet Malachi reminded Israel's priests that all are equal in God's eyes. God only shares honor with those who work honestly for Israel's good. In our Second Reading, Paul recounts the way he kept to the background and let the Spirit do all the work. Paul's humility allowed him to find joy in the grace he saw around him. In the Gospel reading, Jesus offered the scribes and Pharisees a warning. They knew the truth, but their actions revealed an ignorance of its purpose. God intended the covenant to make Israel a family that was so strong it could weather any trial. Instead, certain teachers of Israel used that covenant to show off their status and feed their pride. Jesus recognized that such actions drove people away from deeper engagement with God and God's teachings. + Christian humility means to find peace in being the person God has created and loves. It means to put aside envy and share in the joy of our brothers and sisters. It means to serve as Jesus did, finding joy when grace transforms another's life. When we know ourselves through God's eyes, we can speak divine truth with the power of Christ.

Questions to Ponder

How can pride intrude on the truth you speak? + How can you rejoice in the good of others? + Why did Jesus instruct his disciples to "observe all things whatsoever" that the scribes and Pharisees tell them? What value did he see in their words?

The Practice of Faith

The rhythms of the natural world and the history of salvation determine the structure and nature of the Liturgy of the Hours. Begin a regular practice of Morning and Evening Prayer to understand your significance in creation. + Extend the practice of your faith outside the walls of your parish church by praying every day as a family, for a blessed day, a peaceful night, or for those in need. + When you attend Mass, be mindful of your approach to your fellow worshipers. Are you welcoming? Or are you judging the postures, gestures, and attentiveness of those around you?

RECENT DONATIONS

Donation for hosts and wine in memory of Robert R. Scasellati, Jr. from Grandchildren Alaina and Kaitlyn. Thank you and God bless you.
